Ashbory Bass

DeArmond re-releases what Guild's 1987 literature called "the epitome of originality ... the most innovative bass guitar ever created." The 18 inch fretless scale and super light weight of the Ashbory make it easy to create the growl of an upright or the punch of a standard electric bass. The patented Ashworth transducer and the silicone rubber strings are a major part of what makes the Ashbory so unique but the sound for live and recording applications is what makes it a necessity for any recording studio and treat for any live stage performance. Artists around the world, famous and unknown, have performed and recorded with the original Guild Ashborys. They have loved and cherished these very collectable instruments. They have struggled to find strings and parts for their beloved Ashbory basses, but replacement strings and parts will soon be available again as accessories from DeArmond. Now available for all the world in Black, Frost Red Metallic and Moon Blue and all with Gig Bag included.
